Postdoc Wins Prestigious NCI Poster Competition

Dec 06, 2012

Yi Shu, a postdoctoral scholar in the laboratory of Dr. Peixuan Guo, won the Best Poster Presentation Award at the National Cancer Institute Alliance for Nanotechnology in Cancer Annual Principal Investigators' Meeting in Houston in November.

The poster was entitled "Fabrication of Versatile RNA Nanoparticles Targeting to Cancer without Entering Normal Organs and Tissues," featuring the Guo lab's leading-edge RNA nano-delivery research. This is the third time Dr. Shu has received a best presentation at a conference. Key contributions to this poster were provided by UK College of Pharmacy faculty members Farzin Haque and Dan Shu.
