

CINCINNATI	NATION	WORLD	POLITICS	ECONOMY	HEALTH & SCIENCE	TECHNOLOGY	ARTS
------------	--------	-------	----------	---------	------------------	------------	------

Cincinnati Edition Weekends at 7 am

Return to the Cincinnati Edition Archive

Cincinnati Edition Archive Sunday, October 18, 2009

Cincinnati Edition: October 18, 2009

Listen to the entire program By WVXU News

Listen to the MP3 (59:00)

H1N1 in Greater Cincinnati

Maryanne Zeleznik speaks with Hamilton County Health Commissioner Tim Ingram about H1N1, the vaccines and what symptoms to look for.

By Maryanne Zeleznik

For more information: WVXU Health and Science

For more information: Hamilton County Public Health H1N1 Information

Listen to the MP3 (14:32)

Facing the Mortgage Crisis

Facing the Mortgage Crisis has Mary Hurlburt from Consumer Credit Counseling Services discussing credit ratings and repairing bad credit with Mark Perzel.

By Mark Perzel

For more information: Consumer Credit Counseling Services

Listen to the MP3 (10:16)

Repair Affair

Kim Sullivan from People Working Cooperatively joins Mark Perzel to discuss the organization's upcoming Repair Affair effort and the need for volunteers.

By Mark Perzel

For more information: People Working Cooperatively

Listen to the MP3 (6:40)

The Big Screen: My Time Will Come/Getting Home

Larry Thomas reviews two Cincinnati World Cinema presentations: My Time Will Come, and Getting Home.

By Larry Thomas

For more information: Cincinnati World Cinema

For more information: WVXU Reviews

Listen to the MP3 (4:56)

The Big Screen Podcasts

Field Notes: Florida's Coral Reefs

Thane Maynard is joined by Ken Nedimyer, who is helping rebuild coral reefs in the Florida Keys.

By Thane Maynard

For more information: Coral Restoration Foundation

Listen to the MP3 (11:26)

Field Notes Podcasts

Focus on Technology

A couple of University of Cincinnati researchers have laid the groundwork for personalized genome sequencing that will allow for individualized therapies. But it's very expensive. Ann Thompson reports in Focus on Technology.

By Ann Thompson

Listen to the MP3 (4:52)

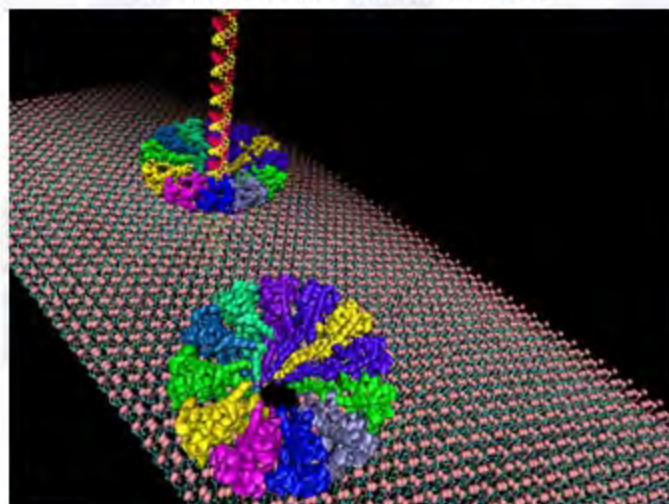

Focus on Technology Podcasts

Peixuan Guo, PhD, Professor, Dane and Mary Louise Miller Endowed Chair in Biomedical Engineering, Director of Nanomedicine Development at the University of Cincinnati

Dr. David Wendell, UC biomedical researcher

In Dr. Guo's study, researchers inserted the core of the bacterial virus phi29 DNA packaging nanomotor into a lipid membrane.

Updated Cincinnati Edition Podcast Link: [XML] (Help) http://www.npr.org/templates/rss/podcast.php?id=510048

About Cincinnati Edition:

Greater Cincinnati enjoys a rich cultural, social and political life and Cincinnati Edition will showcase the wide variety of talented individuals and committed organizations that make Cincinnati special.

Host Mark Perzel will provide listeners with a unique look at the news of the week, important community issues and a variety of special features.

SECRETS OF EGYPT Cincinnati Museum Center Exhibit & Film Now Open!

WVXU News: Texting ban town hall meeting Thursday, Senator wants to make benefits process quicker for disabled veterans, etc.

The NPR News App for the iPhone™ 91.7 WVXU

Reach those who make the decisions that influence your business. Get more information about advertising on Cincinnati Public Radio.